

Now then – Sir Jimmy backs show

PEOPLE can snap up tickets for a show supported by television icon Sir Jimmy Savile this week.

Sir Jimmy donated one of his trademark tracksuits to the organisers of the Lincoln District Scout Gang Show because one of the sketches in the show features an episode of Jim'll Fix It.

The show is being performed at the Theatre Royal on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It features songs and dance routines from Disney films, the children's spoof gangster musical Buggy Malone and the 1980s pop group Madness.

The sketches will also feature other stars – including a tribute to the Spice Girls.

Tickets for the show are available from the Theatre Royal box office. They cost £7.50 for adults and £6 for children. Family tickets are also available.

For tickets calls the Theatre Royal Box Office on (01522) 534570, (01522) 525555 or (01522) 519999.
