

It's a real Tree for All

PUPILS and Scouts will be teaming up to plant thousands of trees in a county wood.

The youngsters will take part in the event organised by the Woodland Trust in Goltho Wood, near Wragby.

The former arable land is adjacent to two ancient woodland sites which make up part of the Lincolnshire Limewoods between Wragby, Bardney and Woodhall Spa.

The new planting, entitled Tree for All, will enable the trust to extend and buffer the ancient woods with more than 200 acres of new planting and habitat creation.

Pupils from 10 county schools including Swinderby All Saints' Primary and Potterhanworth Primary will take part in the event this week.

Tuesday, January 22, 2008

At the heart of all things local visit our website this is lincolnshire.co.uk

CITY & COUNTY EDITION

Lincolnshire Echo

